FINAL PREPARATION FOR THE FAIR

Next week is the greatest week of the year for Marion county—the week of the fair.

It should be a week of entertainment and amusement; of social commingling; a bringing of the corners of our great county together at their common center; a meeting of old friends and making of new; a comparison of advantages; a suggestion of better methods—in short, a big family gathering of the people of the best county of the best state of the best country in the world.

While the fair is for us all, it is first of all for the farmers. There are the most of them and they can make the most of it. It depends mostly on them as to whether it will be successful and creditable. It would not be worth while to give a fair if the farmers didn't attend in large numbers, and the fair will be very little but an imitation of a department store and a succession of races if the farmers do not bring the best of their fields and stack them up for their neighbors to see and stock raisers bring as much of his best products as possible. There is no use in holding back for fear of crowding. There is plenty of room—there will be too much a plenty unless there are more exhibits than ever before.

MRS. CHARLOTTE L'ENGLE

A dispatch from Jacksonville to the Lakeland Telegram follows the death of Mrs. Charlotte L'Engle, the revered mother of Claude L'Engle, Jacksonville, Nov. 19.—After a long and useful life and following a serious illness of more than a year, Mrs. Charlotte L'Engle, who has been a resident of Jacksonville for fifty-eight years, widow of the late F. L'Engle, died at an early hour yesterday morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. John E. Hartridge, on Riverside avenue.

Mrs. L'Engle was a native of St. Augustine, and was born April 4, 1830, and spent her early childhood days in the ancient city. Her father was Dr. Peter Porcher, and she moved to Jacksonville, Fla., when she was quite young. There in 1853 she married her late husband, whom she had known in St. Augustine in her childhood days.

She accompanied her husband to North Carolina, where he was engaged in the construction of a railroad, and the following year they moved to Jacksonville.

Mrs. L'Engle was the mother of ten children, six of whom died in infancy, the four surviving members being Porcher L'Engle, Mrs. J. E. T. Bowden, Mrs. J. E. Hartridge and Claude L'Engle. She has fourteen grandchildren and one great grandchild. Mrs. L'Engle, with her husband, went through the civil war, encountering the many vicissitudes, and after the conflict her husband was the moving spirit in the development of LaVilla, where the family resided until 1891.

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY

President Taft has appointed Mr. Larz Anderson, now minister to Belgium, ambassador to Japan in place of Mr. Charles Page Bryan, resigned. Mr. Anderson is young, rich and ambitious. His contributions to the republican campaign funds were $25,000 in 1908, and $10,000 in 1912.

JUDGE SWEARINGEN IS A GEM

A dispatch from Jacksonville, dated a few days ago, says: "When G. W. Gayle faced the local police judge this morning charged with drunkenness, Judge Swearingen recognized in him a man he had been owing seven dollars for the past several months. 'I owe you some money,' said the judge. 'You are discharged. Come up to my office and get the coin. Too bad you were not arrested before, so that we could have settled this account.'"

The open attack upon the constitutionality of the sections of the recent postal appropriation act requiring newspapers to give postal authorities access to their circulation records and to publish a list of their stockholders and bondholders, as well as to label political articles as advertisements, was made Tuesday before the United States supreme court in a printed brief filed by Robert C. Morris and G. B. Plante, on behalf of the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, New York. The case is set for argument orally on Dec. 3. This law isn't worrying the Star any, but we don't see why newspapers should be subject to it any more than railroads, hotels, banks, telephone and telegraph companies.

The Jacksonville street car strike was officially ended Tuesday, after lasting three weeks. The men voted to disband the union which had been objected to. While they have lost their strike, the men have at least done a little good, in showing how badly the streetcar company has been treating its employees and compelling it to give them better usage in the future. A great deal of individual suffering for a little general good is the way mankind progresses.

Some of these headline artists are careless. The Lakeland Telegram heads a dispatch, telling of the lynching at McIntosh, "Second Hanging Took Place at Ocala Today." The first one hasn't taken place yet.

Carmi Thompson, secretary to President Taft, will be appointed treasurer of the United States within the next few days to succeed Lee McClung, who resigned from the position last week. McClung quit his job in a huff last week because he couldn't harmonize with Secretary of the Treasury McVeigh.

The charge of abduction again Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, has been dismissed because of the prosecution's inability to prove that Lucile Cameron, the white girl whose association with Johnson led to his arrest, had been abducted by him. Other suits are pending against Jack, and his rose-strewn pathway of a few months ago is now developing many ugly snags.

MRS. D. A. MILLER

Mrs. Sudie, widow of the late Daniel A. Miller, died at 3:30 o'clock this morning at her home in this city, in the 61st year of her age.

Mrs. Miller was enjoying good health for her, as she has not been a very strong woman for a number of years. She was out in the yard walking about when stricken with what is supposed to have been heart failure and dropped dead instantly.

Mrs. Miller was the daughter of Capt. W. L. Fletcher, a gallant Confederate officer and was born on the old plantation in the neighborhood of what is now Eubank. She moved to Ocala shortly after her marriage to Mr. Miller and has resided in this city for more than forty years. Her entire life has been spent in the county and city of Ocala and a quarter of a century of its span in the residence on Fort King avenue now occupied by Mr. W. T. Gary.

Mrs. Miller leaves four sons and one daughter: Messrs. Charles V. Miller, Glover Miller and Mrs. Howard Walker, all of this city; Mr. Lee Miller of Orlando and Mr. Albert Miller of Kansas City.

Mr. Albert Miller will not be able to get here in time for the funeral. Mr. Lee Miller and his wife will arrive tomorrow having been notified by telegraph of Mrs. Miller's death.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence and the remains will be laid to rest in Greenwood cemetery beside the body of her husband.

Dr. W. H. Dodge of the Presbyterian church will conduct the funeral and the burial will be in charge of Messrs. Melver & McKay.

The sudden and entirely unexpected death of Mrs. Miller was a great shock to her family and friends. She has a wide circle of friends in this city and throughout the county, and is related by blood or marriage to many of the prominent families of this portion of the state.

Mrs. Miller was a devout Christian, a loving mother and her death will be sincerely mourned by all who have known her.

The Star extends its deepest sympathy to the bereaved family in the loss of their beloved mother.

B. H. SANDERS, JR.

Little B. H. Sanders, Jr., the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Sanders, died at 10:45 o'clock this morning, at the home of his parents on Orange avenue, in the southern part of the city.

The boy cut his hand a week or ten days ago, while peeling sugar cane with a large knife. The wound gave him very little trouble until a day or two ago, when blood poisoning set in and he followed yesterday afternoon. All through the night it was thought the little fellow would die. This morning he seemed a little better, but a change for the worse came and death ensued.

The child was the youngest of Mr. and Mrs. Sanders' children and the pet of the family and relatives, and he is almost heart broken over his death.

The funeral services will take place tomorrow morning at the family residence. Dr. W. H. Dodge will officiate and interment will be made in Greenwood. Mr. E. C. Smith will have charge of the funeral arrangements.

GOOD OLD BROTHER HAS GONE HOME

Mr. L. F. Reynolds of this city has the sympathy of all in the death of his father, Rev. E. H. Reynolds, which occurred Sunday at Jacksonville, Rev. Reynolds was one of the leading Baptist ministers of the state and was beloved by all who knew him.—Lakeland Telegram.

Mr. Reynolds was an estimable citizen and exceedingly well posted on Florida Baptist literature. He had a number of friends in Ocala, who can sympathize with his relatives in their bereavement.

MAN FROM LEVY COUNTY DROPPED DEAD IN MIAMI

The Miami Metropolis of the 18th says: Lying face downward in the Royal Palm baseball park, the body of J. P. Nelson, of Rosewood, Fla., was found at 2:15 this afternoon. Doctors who were summoned surmised the death to be caused by apoplexy, as there was no sign of a struggle and no marks upon the body to indicate rough usage.

MRS. L. E. CARNEY

(Leesburg Commercial)

As her 77th birthday was drawing to a close, without any warning, Mrs. L. E. Carney sank to the ground Monday afternoon and was dead. She had been on a visit to Mrs. J. F. Stafford, and about 5 o'clock started home, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. G. A. Carney. Out in the yard they stopped to say a few words, and she died as above stated.

"Grandma" Carney was born in North Carolina and since the death of her husband a number of years ago has made her home with her children. A few years ago she was partially paralyzed, from the effects of which she never fully recovered, and it is thought a return of the affliction was the cause of her death. She was of a bright and cheerful disposition and soon won the love of all acquaintances.

Rev. J. E. Mickler conducted the funeral services Tuesday afternoon at the home of her son, G. A. Carney, and in Lone Oak cemetery loving friends buried her body beneath a mound of flowers.

She is survived by three sons and two daughters, L. E. Carney and Mrs. Lewis of Fitzgerald, Ga.; Mrs. A. H. Liles of Greenville, Fla.; G. A. and J. R. Carney of this city.

When two hundred young men, most of them with wives and babes at home, were locked up in an assembly hall to prevent any charge of disorder being made against them, big headlines told that a visiting evangelist would make an address "for women only." No preacher should tell women anything that their husbands cannot hear in their presence.—Dixie.

The only way to separate 'em is to pass a law requiring a voter when he registers to also put down his party preference. Then if one not down as a democrat comes along and wants to vote in a state primary he can be required to take oath that he will support the nominees of the primary.—St. Augustine Record.

A BRILLIANT OCCASION

Reception in Honor of Mrs. Trammell at the Home of Mrs. Carney

Yesterday afternoon from 3 to 5 Mrs. E. L. Carney gave a reception at her pleasant home on Oklawaha avenue in honor of Mrs. Park Trammell, wife of the governor-elect of Florida, and Mrs. Leon Fishel, one of Ocala's charming young brides. Mrs. Carney is noted for her entertainments, which are among the most brilliant given in Ocala. The rooms were beautifully decorated, showing exquisite taste and artistic ability in the blending of colors and designs.

Receiving at the front door were Mrs. Edward Holder, Mrs. R. S. Hall and Mrs. C. Rheinauer, who showed the guests into the living room, where Mrs. Carney with her honor guests, Mrs. Trammell, Mrs. Fishel and Mrs. H. P. Newman were receiving.

In the different rooms twelve following handsomely gowned ladies received: Mrs. W. K. Zewadski, Mrs. G. S. Scott, Miss Jennie Hohenberg, Mrs. S. R. Pyles, Mrs. R. G. Blake, Mrs. R. B. Bullock, Mrs. L. W. Duvall, Mrs. T. H. Johnson and Mrs. E. P. Renz. Mrs. Frank Harris, Mrs. S. T. Sistrunk and Mrs. W. V. Newsum served punch.

Miss Josie Williams showed the guests to the dining room, where elegant refreshments were served by Mrs. Jack Renz, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. Fred Blalock and Mrs. J. D. Robertson. On leaving the dining room Mrs. H. M. Hampton and Mrs. O. T. Green received the guests in the rear hall.

Mrs. Carney wore yellow chiffon over yellow satin and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Mrs. Trammell, the beautiful, talented and accomplished honor guest of the occasion, was handsomely gown in pink chiffon over pink satin and carried white carnations. Mrs. Leon Fishel wore an elaborately embroidered white chiffon over white satin with white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Newman wore white chiffon broadcloth and carried red carnations.

There was a profusion of flowers, many being brought by the different ladies so that all could enjoy their beauty and fragrance and with the soft music rendered by Mrs. Annie Laurie Perry, one of Ocala's fairest young musicians, at the piano, the afternoon was an enchanting one.

The occasion is one to be long remembered as one of the most brilliant in Ocala's social calendar, not only for Mrs. Carney's gracious hospitality but for the pleasure of meeting the "First Lady of Florida."

CHENEY IS COMING

The Jacksonville Metropolis of the 19th says: United States Judge John M. Cheney left this afternoon for his home at Orlando, where he will remain for a few days before returning to Tampa, where he will take up some accumulated court business next Monday. From Tampa he will go to Ocala, where several cases await him, and will return home the latter part of next week.

SOME PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

Showing How Ocala Can Be Made a Model City

Following is a copy of a paper read by Mr. R. L. Martin before the Mississippi to Atlantic Waterway Association at its convention at Albany, Ga., last month:

There are a number of cities in this country, and in foreign countries, situated at interior points, not very far distant from navigable water, that are in sore need of water transportation to control freight rates, but the elevation of these cities is such that no apex water can be obtained.

Annually these cities pay freight in excess of the water rate, amounting to thousands of dollars.

The writer suggests that it would be profitable for private capital of these cities, in many instances, to install canals, and feed same with operating water by pumps, or other artificial means of elevating feed water.

In order to do this, the canal would be constructed in the usual way, with locks sufficient to elevate the vessels to the city's level, and near the head of the canal a reservoir be constructed for the purpose of storing the water pumped for feeding purposes.

From this storage reservoir, as needed, the water could be turned into the canal in order to keep the water at the proper depth to carry such vessels as might enter the canal.

There might be a dozen or more locks in the canal to elevate vessels to the level of the upper end of the canal, still only one lock full of water would be discharged each time a vessel passed through the canal.

In order to economize in the use of feeding water, there might be a haulover for boats of 50 feet and less in length, thereby saving the loss of any water on all of the smaller craft.

As a further means of supplying feed-water, the storage reservoir could be so constructed that the water from rains falling on as large a territory as possible would flow into the reservoir, thus accumulating a large proportion of the feed-water.

As another means of keeping up the supply of water in the reservoir, sewerage water from the city, after passing through septic tanks, could be turned into the storage reservoir.

Los Angeles, Cal., Merida, Yucatan, Mexico and other large cities, as well as many smaller cities, might use this system with profit.

Ocala, not having natural apex water, a canal constructed from Silver Springs to Ocala on this plan is what we need, locating the storage reservoir at the pond, near the ice plant. We understand the elevation of this pond is about 65 feet above tide water, and Silver Springs being 40 feet above tide water, would necessitate raising the water 25 feet.

The cost of construction and installation of this canal, including digging of canal and reservoir, building of necessary locks and adequate pumping machinery, ready for traffic, would not exceed $200,000. The freight saved in two years by the city of Ocala would more than pay this back, besides the many other advantages that would be derived. This would solve the question of disposition of our sewerage. The city owning the canal, sewerage plant and water works, sewers could be flushed every day and the water used to keep up the water in the reservoir for feeding the canal.

Ocala could, by the installation of this system, be made the cleanest and most healthy city in the United States.

EAST COAST RAILWAY

HAD TO LINE UP

Reduced freight rates on pineapples, citrus fruits and such over the Florida East Coast Railway to northern points, have been made effective by a decision of the United States commerce court. The court sustained the position taken by the Interstate Commerce Commission that the immense cost of constructing the "over seas" extension to Key West should not be considered in the establishment of the reasonableness of freight rates from Florida points.

FOUGHT TO A FINISH

International Crook and His Mate Battled Against Justice to the Fatal End

New York, Nov. 20.—A man and a woman stood in a small room of a Raines law hotel in the Bronx last night and deliberately shot down three detectives and two other men who were trying to place the pair under arrest. After nearly emptying the eleven cartridges from a large automatic pistol, reinforced by shots from a revolver in the hands of his woman companion and probably fatally wounding four of those whom she shot down, the man shot and killed the woman and then put a bullet through his own head, dying instantly.

The man was Joseph Vogel, a Pole and an international crook. The woman is supposed to have been his wife. The police had been on their trail for several days before cornering them with the foregoing fatal result.

TEACHING US HOW TO EUCHER THE MEAT TRUST

Women of the Chicago School of Domestic Arts and Science have planned a body blow for the high cost of living in an exhibit to be given by them this week. They say they will set a whole-some meat at a cost of seven cents a plate. The meal is planned for a family of six and costs forty-two cents.

The following is the bill:
One loaf of homemade bread, two cents.
Mutton and vegetables en casserole, twenty-five cents.

Steamed rice, five cents.
Bread pudding, custard, ten cents.

The en casserole dish, it is held, will contain as much nutriment as a ninety-cent steak and makes side dishes unnecessary, since it includes vegetables.

The rice is included, being richer in food values than potatoes.

The women say they will prove that 25 loaves of bread may be made from one sack of good flour.
